Interview Tips and Advice

An interview is a conversation between you and an employer to see if you're the right fit for a role. It's important to make sure you know what to expect from an interview and to prepare as best as you can.

Prepare for the interview

Make sure you have time to prepare for your interview. To prepare for an interview:

- read the job description carefully and understand what skills and experience the employer is looking for
- do some research on the company's website
- look over your CV or application form and think about what the interviewer might ask you
- prepare some examples from your past experience to refer to in the interview

Practise your answers

Answer questions using the STAR method

The STAR method helps you to answer interview questions fully: Using the STAR method.

What STAR stands for:

- situation - the situation you had to deal with
- task - the task you were given to do
- action - the action you took
- result - what happened as a result of your action and what you learned from the experience

Common interview questions and answers

- Give an example of
- Describe a situation where you
- How did you

These are situational and behavioural questions. For examples of common interview questions and answers, you can view these here: YouTube

Remember the employer is looking to see how you work with other people, deal with problems, communicate and contribute. Researching the employer's website will also help you to get a feel for what the employer might be looking for.

At the end of the interview

You'll usually have some time towards the end of the interview to ask some of your own questions.

You might want to follow up after the interview with an email or phone call unless you know when you'll hear back. Before accepting the role, you might want to:

- ask for confirmation of the offer in writing
- confirm a start date and let them know if you have a notice period
- ask about work patterns or arrangements
- let them know your salary expectations if you've not already discussed it

Prospects

Prospects is a careers website aimed at students. However, it has a range of useful tips and videos about interviews. For more information visit the Prospects website.

Volunteering

As well as practical skills that can be transferable, to work situations, volunteering can also help to hone softer skills such as empathy, teamwork, communication, time-management and creativity, so why not give volunteering a try? Volunteering helps to forge stronger links with communities and, in doing so, can naturally build personal networks, enhance self-motivation, boost confidence, develop skills and, of course, experience. Any volunteering activity can also feature on your CV helping to fill any gaps that might appear as a consequence of not being in work for any time.

Volunteering and employability: Many studies have shown that volunteering not only helps to boost the wellbeing of individuals, whilst supporting community groups, but can also help with developing employability.
